Pre-Purchase

Q1. Why do two pieces of the same handmade product look slightly different?

A: Handmade products are crafted by artisans and inherently carry natural variations in size, shape, colour, and pattern. These variations are characteristic of authentic handcraft and are NOT defects. Each piece is unique. Product listings note this.

Q2. How do I know if a product is genuinely handmade?

A: Drawnzers verifies all sellers in the Handmade & Artisan category. Look for the 'Drawnzers Verified Artisan' badge. GI-tagged products carry government GI certification. Artisan profiles on product pages provide background and craft tradition details.

Q3. Are GI-tagged products (e.g., Pashmina, Kanjivaram silk) authentic?

A: Yes. GI-tagged products on Drawnzers carry verified GI certification. The GI number is displayed on the product page and on the product tag/certificate provided with the item.

Delivery & Timelines

Q4. Why do handmade products take longer to deliver?

A: Artisans often work in small batches in rural or semi-urban areas with limited logistics infrastructure. Processing time is longer (3–5 days before dispatch). Made-to-order items take 2–4 weeks. This timeline supports fair artisan working conditions.

Returns

Q5. My handmade pottery arrived cracked. What do I do?

A: Transit damage to fragile artisan items is covered. Report within 10 days with photos. Drawnzers will issue a full refund or arrange a replacement (if the artisan has another piece). Fragile items can be refused at delivery if the outer box shows damage.

Q6. The colour of my block-print fabric is slightly different from the product image. Is this returnable?

A: Minor colour variations in handmade/natural dye products are inherent characteristics. A significantly different colour (e.g., red instead of orange) qualifies for return. Contact support with photos for assessment.
